

Susan Davis, President & CEO, BRAC USA

Ms. Davis is a thought leader in international development and civil society innovation and co-author with David Bornstein of Social Entrepreneurship: What Everyone Needs to Know published by Oxford University Press in 2010. She is the founding President & CEO of BRAC USA, a grantmaking affiliate of BRAC, an international development organization started in Bangladesh in 1972 and now working in Haiti and 9 countries across Africa and Asia. She is currently on the governing boards of BRAC and BRAC International and serves as chair for BRAC Sierra Leone and Liberia microfinance companies. In addition she was a founding board member and Chair of the Grameen Foundation and is a current board member. Since its inception, Ms. Davis has served as a Senior Advisor to New York University's Reynolds Program on Social Entrepreneurship.

Previously she led Ashoka's Global Academy for Social Entrepreneurship, co-founded the University Network for Social Entrepreneurship and oversaw Ashoka's expansion to the Middle East, North Africa and Central Asia. She serves on Ashoka's international board committee that selects Ashoka Fellows. In addition she served as a Senior Advisor to the Director General of the International Labor Organization. Prior to that, she led the global advocacy group, Women's Environment & Development Organization. She has extensive microfinance experience including from her years with the Ford Foundation in Bangladesh and from her work with Women's World Banking. She also served as a funder and volunteer representative to start Ashoka Bangladesh. Earlier she was the Assistant Director of the export trading company of the Port Authority of New York & New Jersey. She serves on numerous other boards including Sirleaf Market Women's Fund, and African Women's Development Fund USA. She is involved in the Dalai Lama Scholars and Fellows Program, Dalai Lama Center Connecting for Change, Global Fairness Initiative and is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. She was educated at Georgetown, Harvard and Oxford universities.